[Redacted]

Local newspapers have given publicity to subject during the months of May and June, 1971, because of his desire to obtain Israeli immigrant status following the expiration of his tourist visa in July, 1971. Publicity mounted in June, 1971, following the rejection of three individuals alleged to have traveled to Israel to confer with subject.

[Redacted]

From newspaper accounts, it appears that a number of attempts were made to interview subject or to monitor his daily activities.
These efforts resulted in determining that subject will talk to no newsman and briefly emerges from the Accadia Hotel to walk his dog.

RE: MEYER LANSKY

A second ~~confidential~~ source abroad, who has furnished reliable information in the past, observed that the "Haaretz" for June 20, 1971, contained an article alleging that a group of unidentified depositors, claimed to be members of the "Mafia" from the United States, Europe, and South Africa, approached the Bank of Israel and other Israeli banks for the purpose of depositing $120 million, U. S. The deposit was alleged to have certain conditions, one of which would provide the depositors an official letter from the Israeli Government that funds deposited were obtained from charitable solicitations for Israel. A second condition was that the interest provided on the account would be between 10 to 12%, which in some instances is provided "foreign resident's funds," as compared with the normal 5 1/2 to 7% obtained for savings in Israel. Since the higher rate had to be authorized by the Israeli Ministry of Finance, the article noted that the Bank of Israel and other Israeli banks discussed the proposal with the Ministry of Finance officials, who rejected the proposal on the grounds that the funds may be withdrawn in their entire amount at some time when these funds would not be available. The second ~~confidential~~ source abroad stated that on the afternoon of June 20, 1971, a Ministry of Finance spokesman denied the entire story.

The second source further advised on June 22, 1971, that an individual identified as [redacted] from [redacted] is currently in Israel, and a guest at the King David Hotel in Jerusalem. It is alleged that [redacted] is bringing pressure to bear upon the Ministry of the Interior to provide immigration status for the subject. It is further alleged, according to the source, that [redacted] is somehow affiliated with the subject. [redacted] is a wealthy man and obtained his wealth through [redacted]

The second source also noted on June 22, 1971, that a prominent banker in Geneva, Switzerland, Tibor Rosenbaum, has some financial interest in the Israeli newspaper "Maariv", which perhaps accounts, according to the source, for subject finally granting an extensive interview with Mr. Uri Dan of this newspaper to write a book regarding subject and his activities. According to the source, Dan has been sworn to secrecy by subject, and will not reveal any information so far divulged until the entire interview has been completed, and sufficient material exists for a book on this matter. "Maariv" will then have the rights to produce the book in serial form in "Maariv."
